REBUILDING THE WONDER ROAD—

The devastating floods of July, 1965 completely washed out the Cheyenne Mountain Highway and in the months since men and machines have been busy rebuilding the "Wonder Road." On this Super-Scenic Trip of America which is now entirely paved in asphaltic concrete, the road has been widened and made much more accessible; several turn-outs have been added where travelers may pull off the highway and view the surrounding country; and the parking lot at Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun has been increased in size. The date for the official re-opening of the highway is Saturday, April 16.
